Strange ahead Press Release:

"Strange ahead" is the name of the newly formed ensemble of saxophonist, clarinetist and composer Ilse Riedler, and is also the title of her debut album. The quartet was founded in the spring of 2007 and formed very quickly to a dynamic and expressive band. Omitting a harmony instrument for the benefit of percussion is unusual and extends the sound and groove potential that the musicians very rewardingly exploit.

Odd Meters, harsh sounds, driving grooves and fragile soundfigures create a mood of tremendous complexity and intensity, and lead the listener more and more "strange ahead" ...
